The City of Hamilton's Public Works and Community Services Departments have begun the deLottinville Neighbourhood Park design project. Concepts will be available for review for the new 1.5 hectare (3.7 acres) parkland adjacent to Newcombe Road in the Conservation Run subdivision. Both traditional and natural playgrounds, a multi-use play court, a suitable feature to recognize the deLottinville family and a trail system are proposed.

Area residents are invited to attend this public meeting and participate in this project by providing their comments. The community is also invited to send their thoughts and their preferred option to the project manager. Project updates will be provided on the City's web site at www.hamilton.ca/LAS. The project web page will remain active for the duration of the project.
